MANY RATE SCHOLASTIC HONOR ROLL

NAMES OF TWENTY GREENCASTLE HIGH SCHOOL SENIORS APPEAR IN LIST.

The current issue of the Ink Pot, the Greencastle high school newspaper, carried the scholastic standing of the honor pupils of the senior class. The honor system is based on the point system, that is each grade earns a certain number of points. Therefore it is seen that the person having the most subjects would have the advantage, so the list is not entirely accurate as to the exact brilliance of the students, the Ink Pot states.

However, the honor students' grades will be based on these points as well as grades.

The honor list is as follows:

Martha Vaughan	160.8
Ann Nichols	142.25
Rosecoe Sutherland	141.3
Elsie Morrison	138.1
Virginia Kariden	138.

READY TO COMPROMISE

GENEVA, April 22. (UP)—The United States stands ready to make maximum concessions in its land armaments and to agree to drastic reductions in naval armaments, ambassador Hugh S. Gibson, head of the American delegation to the preparatory disarmament commission, told the assembly today.

This was the first public declaration of the sentiments of the Hoover administration regarding the important question of disarmament.

"I think we should scrap the word limitation and work for serious reduction," Gibson told the delegates.

No effective limitation of armaments is possible unless warships, cruisers and submarines of all classes are limited. We still hold that naval armaments are purely relative. The needs of one nation depend upon the fleets of the other nations."

Gibson said that as a compromise the United States was willing to accept as a basis for discussion the specified tonnage for each category, but with the right to increase the tonnage of certain categories by transferring it from other categories.

"As regards to naval tonnage," Gibson said, "We have found no reason to recede from our position that the best method is limitation by category. Yet, as some nations have been unable to accept this method, we are willing to endeavor to seek a compromise."

QUINCY MAN TAKES POISON EARLY MONDAY

CHARLES PIERSON COMMITS SUICIDE IN CLOVERDALE ROOMING HOUSE

WAS BELIEVED DESPONDENT

Wife Took Own Life In Same Manner Six Months Ago. Four Children Survive.

Charles Pierson, 29, of Quincy, committed suicide early Monday morning by drinking carbolic acid at the boarding and rooming house of Mrs. Emma McAninch in Cloverdale.

Hearing an unusual noise in his room at 4:30 o'clock, members of the household investigated and found Pierson dead. An empty bottle which had contained the carbolic acid was found near his body.

Pierson had been in Cloverdale only a few days and had planned to cut timber this week.

His wife committed suicide in the same manner about six months ago. She had been in ill health and that condition had affected her mind causing her to take her own life.

It was said that Pierson had brooded over the death of his wife and it is believed that despondency caused him to drink the poison.

Two letters, addressed to his mother, were found in Pierson's room but the contents were not made public by Coroner Frank Reed, who lives in Cloverdale.

Pierson is survived by the parents and four children, residing in Quincy. The body was removed to the Reed undertaking establishment and prepared for burial.

MUSIC SCHOOL WILL PRESENT OPERA, MAY 9-10

PROF. BORCHERS TO PRODUCE "PINAFORE". ANNUAL UNIVERSITY PERFORMANCE.

GOOD CAST ANNOUNCED

Stage Settings In Charge Of Miss Ruth Owens. Much Time Spent Selecting Cast.

On May 9 and 10, DePauw University will present its annual opera. Although presented by the School of Music, members of the cast and chorus are chosen from the entire school, and often from the faculty, making it in reality an all University production as is the case this year. As well as being one of the educational and entertaining features of the school calendar, it is becoming customarily considered as one of the outstanding social events of the year.

The work to be presented this year, is the comic opera "Pinafore," by Gilbert and Sullivan. Prof. Borchers who so excellently produced Carmen last year, will again have charge of the production. The various parts of the opera cast, chorus, and dancers, etc., have all been rehearsing for a month, and the process of putting all the parts together has been started.

The cast which is made up of outstanding vocalists has been very carefully chosen, and is especially well balanced, each person fitting well into the part. The singing choruses are unusually fine, equally so to the many stirring climaxes of the opera, and they are composed of an attractive group of young ladies and handsome sailors. Besides striking sailors chorus and the excellent ladies chorus, there will be a beautiful picture ballet, a sailors horn pipe dance, a special toe dance, and other special features worked into the opera, making a most complete and elaborate production.

The stage settings in charge of Miss Ruth Owens, promises to be strikingly beautiful, with the deck of the Pinafore in the foreground and with the sea and other vessels in the background.

The plot of the opera is decidedly clever, the situations very complicated, at times intense but always amusing and funny; wherever a group of sailors are concerned, there is comedy a plenty and opposed to this there is also the comical dignity of the royal Sir Joseph, and his relatives, and when the two clash, the situations are really humorous.

The music is particularly lovely, being very tuneful and appealing, and can be enjoyed by the most as well as the least musically inclined. The old English costumes present a most delightful touch and colors to the setting. In all about $300 will be spent in the presentation of the opera, aside from the theater rental, to make it one of the biggest and most elaborate stage productions ever presented by the students of DePauw.

GILMORE IS BOOSTED FOR ISLAND POST

DEPAUW GRAD MAY SUCCEED STIMSON AS PHILIPPINE EXECUTIVE.

EDITORIAL IS PRINTED

Wisconsin State Journal Comments On Eugene Gilmore's Qualifications. Well Known Here.

In an Editorial of Friday, April 19, the Madison, Wisc., State Journal says:

The appointment of Henry L. Stimson as secretary of state leaves vacant the post of governor general of the Philippines. The tendency of President Hoover to appoint the right man for the right job gives encouragement to those in Wisconsin who hope that Eugene A. Gilmore will get the position.

The movement of Mr. Gilmore is not merely a favorite son venture. It is an unselfish campaign to give proper recognition to a big man who for seven years has been doing a big job. Such an appointment would have but little political significance. Mr. Gilmore participated in politics only as a good citizen and as a student of the science of government. His appointment as vice-governor of the islands came to him because he was probably the best fitted man in the United States to hold the post. He should be made governor for the same reason.

Taking office as governor of the Philippines would be merely a titular change for Mr. Gilmore. During the seven years of his present office he has actually been in charge much of the time. Leonard Wood was a sick man a great deal of the time he held the position, and Vice-Governor Gilmore directed island affairs with tact, statesmanship and diplomacy.

Probably the biggest argument in his favor is the high regard with which he is held by the Filipinos. Excerpts from editorials in Philippine newspapers show a unanimous sentiment in his favor.

"The usual expressions of misgivings that attend a change in the governor-generalship are absent as Eugene Allen Gilmore assumes the third familiar office of Acting Chief Executive."—Manila Times.

"The exact picture of the present political situation during Governor Gilmore's office pro tempore may be summed up in a single word namely: TRUST. Both the American and the Filipino elements have faith in the fact that the Acting Governor will not destroy the existing harmony, will not perform any act which is out of place, will not commit any ridiculous indiscretion, will not take advantage of the opportunity to make a showy advertisement of his own person, will not take any misstep, in a word."—La Opinion, Manila.

"There is confidence that Acting Governor General Gilmore will conduct the business of the government not simply fairly well but exceptionally well."—The Tribune, Manila.

"Confidence accounts for the sentiment here which is overwhelmingly in favor of Mr. Gilmore. That confidence is built on experience."—Manila Bulletin.

Wisconsin, and especially the University of Wisconsin, have missed Mr. Gilmore. The regents in extending his leaves of absence from year to year have expressed hopes for his early return to the campus. The state, however, must sacrifice its leaders to the bigger causes of government, and Mr. Gilmore's work in the Philippines is big enough to make the sacrifice worth while.

PRESIDENT DELIVERS ADDRESS IN NEW YORK CITY MONDAY NOON.

PRaises AMERICAN PRESS

Herbert Hoover Asks Newspapers To Exert Their Influence In Fight For U. S. Law Enforcement.

WASHINGTON, April 22. (UP)—President Hoover left here at 7:45 a. m., today for New York aboard a special train to address an Associated Press luncheon at the Waldorf. It is his first out of town speech since entering the White House.

The president was accompanied by Mrs. Hoover, George Akerson, one of his secretaries, and newspaper correspondents. The party left the White House at 7:25 a. m. Most of the president's day was to be spent aboard the train.

Hoover's luncheon address in part follows:

Members and friends of the Associated Press:

I have accepted this occasion for a frank statement of what I consider the dominant issue before the American people. Its solution is more vital to the preservation of our institutions than any other question before us. That is the enforcement and obedience to the laws of the United States, both federal and state.

I ask only that you weigh this for yourselves, and if my position is right, that you support it—not to support me but to support something infinitely more precious—the one force that holds our civilization together—law. And I wish to discuss it as a law, federal and state, for ours is a government of laws made by the people themselves.

A surprising number of our people, otherwise of responsibility in the community, have drifted into the extraordinary notion that laws are made for those who choose to obey them. And in addition, our law enforcement machinery is suffering from many infirmities arising out of its technicalities, its circumlocution, its involved procedures, and too often, I regret, from inefficient and delinquent officials.

We are reaping the harvest of these defects. More than 9,000 human beings are lawlessly killed every year in the United States. Little more than half as many arrests follow. Less than one-sixth of these slayers are convicted, and but a scandalously small percentage are adequately punished. Twenty times as many people in proportion to population are lawlessly killed in the United States as in Great Britain. In many of our great cities murder can apparently be committed with impunity. At least fifty times as many robberies in proportion to population are committed in the United States as in Great Britain, and three times as many burglaries.

Even in such premeditated crimes as embezzlement and forgery our record stands no comparison with stable nations. No part of the country, rural or urban, is immune. Life and property are relatively more unsafe than in any other civilized country in the world. In spite of all this we have reason to pride ourselves on our institutions and the high moral instincts of the great majority of our people. No one will assert that such crimes would be committed if we had even a normal respect for law and if the laws of our country were properly enforced.

We have two immediate problems before us in government. To investigate our existing agencies of enforcement and to reorganize our system of enforcement in such manner as to eliminate its weaknesses. It is the purpose of the federal administration systematically to strengthen its law enforcement agencies week by week, month by month, year by year, not by dramatic displays and violent attacks in order to make headlines, but by violating the law itself through misuse of the law in its enforcement, but by steady pressure, steady weeding out of all incapable and negligent officials no matter what their status; by encouragement, promotion, and recognition for those who do their duty; and by the most rigid scrutiny of the records and attitudes of all persons suggested for appointment to official posts in our entire law enforcement machinery. That is administration for which my colleagues and I are as fully responsible as the human material which can be assembled for the task will succeed. Furthermore, I wish to determine and, as far as possible remove the scores of inherent defects in our present system that defeat the most devoted officials.

POET FAILS TO APPEAR

While one of the largest sized audiences of the year waited, the famous poet, Edwin Markham, failed to appear and talk to the University chapel Monday morning. All classes in the morning had been cut five minutes short in order to give the poet ample time.

Over one hundred townspeople and guests were in attendance and practically all of the faculty, who with a large turnout of students, filled Meharry hall to its capacity, to hear this famous speaker, the author of the poem "The Man With a Hoe."

The title of the organ prelude was "The Bee" and President Oxnam remarked that it was very appropriate as he didn't know whether Markham would "be" there or not. A long hymn was sung and President Oxnam spoke about five minutes, reading a selection about the college president, written by Dr. Frank Crane.

No word had been received by the University officials Monday afternoon explaining why the poet failed to arrive, and his non-appearance is still a mystery.

NEW ALBANY DAMAGED BY HAIL STORM

DAMAGE IN INDIANA CITY WILL AMOUNT TO ABOUT $250,000.

HAIL SIZE OF HEN EGGS

New Albany Florists Heaviest Losers. Girl Blinded As Result of Hail Storm.

NEW ALBANY, Ind., April 22 (UP)—Damaged to the extent of nearly $250,000 by a terrific hail storm, hundreds of dwellings, factories, nursery plant houses and other structures were under repairs today.

The hail, ranging in size from a marble to a hen egg, dazed persons, wrecked automobiles and shattered plate glass windows.

Agnes Troun, 18, was blinded in one eye when the hail broke a window at which she was standing, showering her with glass.

In some instances the hail beat the tops of sedan type automobiles into ribbons, punctured tin roofs and disrupted telephone service.

Trees were smashed, shrubs levelled, cattle, chickens and other animals injured by the terrific size and force of the hail.

Anders, Rasmussen and son, florists were the heaviest losers. Officials of the company said nearly 20,000 square feet of glass in their hot houses were shattered, allowing the ice to destroy hundreds of valuable plants.

Many motorists were injured slightly when the hail crashed through the tops of their automobiles.

The period cabinet Mfg. plant also was damaged to a great extent. A portion of the roof was beaten in, and much stock ruined.

The Peter J. Losson Nursery was completely destroyed, with loss estimated in thousands of dollars.

After the storm had subsided, several inches of the various size balls covered the ground. A tropical rain followed, damaging further the structures laid open by the hail.

A check revealed that most of the 6,000 New Albany homes were damaged to some extent.

JURY FREES ZIMMERMAN OF MURDER

FORMER SHERIFF OF STEUBEN COUNTY ACQUITTED AT ANGOLA.

ONLY TWO BALLOTS TAKEN

Jurors Out Less Than Two Hours. Zimmerman Hears Verdict Calmly. Sensational Case.

ANGOLA, Ind., April 22.—Charles D. Zimmerman, former sheriff of Steuben County was acquitted of a charge of first degree murder by a jury in Circuit court here Saturday afternoon.

Only two ballots were taken, the first being 9 to 3 for acquittal. The jury got the case at 2:55 o'clock this afternoon and returned at 4:13 o'clock.

The verdict was received without a demonstration in the crowded court room, Judge Harman having warned the spectators against any outbreak of any kind.

The former sheriff was alleged to have killed Thomas Blake, Toledo gangster and bank robber. A charred body was declared by James F. Walhom, Ohio state penitentiary inmate and pal of Burk's, as that of the gangster.

Zimmerman received the verdict calmly, but as soon as Judge Harman had finished thanking the jurors for their service, and discharged them, he left his seat at his table and rushed over to shake hands with the jurors and to thank them.

After receiving congratulations from the crowd that packed the room, Zimmerman went over to the railing that separates the spectators' benches from the front part of the courtroom, where Nellie Coleman, his star witness, and the girl with whom he sojourned at a Michigan lake resort on a love tryst while the murder was being committed, was stand with her parents.

Zimmerman left the court room with his brothers, and announced he intended to stay at a cottage at a nearby lake to rest following the trial. The verdict of the jury brought to a close the most sensational murder trial in the history of northeastern Indiana.

With a view to enlisting public understanding, public support, accurate determination of the facts, and constructive conclusions, I have proposed to establish a national commission to study and report upon the whole of our problems involved in criminal law enforcement. That proposal has met with gratifying support, and I am sure it will have the cooperation of the bar associations and crime commissions in our various states in the widespread effort now being made by them. I do not propose to be hasty in the selection of this commission. I want time and advice, in order that I may select high-minded men, impartial in their judgment, skilled in the science of the law and our judicial system, clear in their conception of our institutions. Such a commission can perform the greatest of service to our generation.

There is another and vastly wider field than the nature of laws and the methods of their enforcement. This is the basic question of the understanding, the ideals, the relationship of the individual citizen to the law itself. It is in this field that the press plays a part. Its almost final in its potency to arouse the interest and consciousness of our people. It can destroy their finer sensibilities or it can invigorate them. I am well aware the great majority of our important journalists day by day give support to these high ideals.

I need not repeat that absolute freedom of the press to discuss public questions is a foundation stone of American liberty. I put the question, however, to every individual conscience, whether flippance is a useful or even legitimate device in such discussion.

I do not believe it is. Its effect is sentation. Not clarification, but confusion of issues arise from it.

I have no criticism to make of the American press. I greatly admire its independence and its courage. I sometimes feel that it could give more emphasis to one phase or another of our national problems, but I realize the difficulties under which it operates. I am wondering whether the time has not come, however, to realize that we are confronted with a national necessity of the first degree, that we are not suffering from an ephemeral crime wave but from a subsidence of our foundations.

And in conclusion let me recall an oft-repeated word from Abraham Lincoln, whose invisible presence lives hourly at the very desk and in the

I. U. COMING TUESDAY

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., April 21—

Indiana will play its annual diamond game with DePauw at Greencastle Tuesday afternoon. The Hoosier coach Everett S. Dean, probably will start his sophomores in the lineup against the Tigers.

Competition has been especially lively recently for team places on the Crimson team. The newcomers are working hard to beat the regulars out of their positions. Veller, of Linton

Mankowski, of Detroit; Sylvester, of Mitchell, and Young, of Indianapolis, are all likely starters to replace Paugh, of Action, and Belle, of Bloomington, on the mound.

The only infield position on the Indiana team which is open to sophomores alone is the second base post.

At present Jaros, of Detroit, has played in most of the games at this post, but he is being pushed by Fleischer, of New Albany. Both of these men were hard hitters on the freshman squad last year.

In the outfield sophomores Brubaker, of Ft. Wayne, and Veller, have been holding down regular positions.

Veller was the 1928 captain of the rhinie team and plays equally well on the mound or out in the garden. Crow, of Markle, also is making a strong bid for a permanent outfield post.

Coach Everett S. Dean has not yet announced Indiana's lineup for the contest with DePauw.

Highlights On Spring Sports Here and There

DePauw 78; Earham 48.

It was a good track meet Saturday afternoon and the Quaker thinlies furnished the first real opposition of the season for the Tiger cinder artists. The boys from Richmond made a clean sweep of the javelin event while the Tigers scored grand slams in the 220 and 440 yard dashes.

The Old Gold athletes also took firsts in 7 other events.

Ramsey, star Tiger dash man, flew down the straight away to complete the 100 in the remarkably fast time of 9.7. He was aided by a stiff breeze at his back but this certainly does not detract from his ability as a runner. He came right back, a few minutes later, to run the 220 in 21.9. Then to make it a perfect afternoon, Ramsey leaped nearly 22 feet to top first place in the broad jump and also took third in the shot put.

Button heaved the 16-pound ball a distance of 42' 7 1/2" which was 2 inches less than his throw in the Muncie Normal meet which established a new school record and which, as far as we can ascertain, is better than the Little State mark.

Carter jogged around the field in splendid style to defeat Henwood, Earham distance runner, in the mile.

Melbourne paced the 440 in great shape and Axtell also showed his heels to the field in the 880.

Vawter, Tiger high jumper, didn't have to exert himself Saturday winning the running high jump with a leap of only 5' 6 3/4".

Cy Gunn cleared the bar at 11 feet in the pole vault. This is not so worse but Gunn will probably soar a foot higher before the season ends.

And Indiana sends its baseball team to Greencastle tomorrow to cross bats with Overcast's sluggers. Well, the boys fooled the cocky Butler nine last week, and perhaps they can show the Crimson squad a thing or two during the matinee.

INSTRUCTIONS FOR COLORING

This will make a nice snow picture, the snow forming a good background for the birds. Beginning with the sky which should be a light gray streaked with light blue and rose blending into the horizon.

As snow reflects the color of the sky, the snow in the distance will be almost the color of the sky, possibly a little lighter. The distant trees should be very light shades of blue, rose and yellow. The large trees at the right are sycamores with their white and olive shaded trunks. The brook can be blue with reflections of the sky, the grass along the banks of the stream will be yellow brown and a touch of green with snow almost covering it. The foreground is snow and should be almost white with reflections of the sky. The vines or bush should be green with bright red berries.

Now color the birds; the male bird is the one near the top of the picture, and he should be a bright red with black around the bank, the wings and tail are slightly darker, almost a brown. The female bird is a neutral color, almost the color of the surrounding foliage, the beak and crown is brown, the breast is light brown and yellow, the wings and tail are brown.

Miss Jacobs On Scarlet Tanager

You have bright red flowers in your yard, and Jack Frost paints the leaves of some of the trees a bright red in autumn. And there are three bright red birds that you want to know.

The scarlet tanager is bright red with black wings and tail. The summer tanager is red all over, but not so red as the scarlet tanager. These are not with us all the time as the redbird is. The scarlet tanager spends the winter in the south and the summer a little farther north, so we can see it as it travels from its winter home to its summer home, or when it returns. The summer tanager spends the winter in the south too, but it stops around here and stays
during the summer. It likes country or parks better than people's yards.

But every girl and boy should become a great friend of the redbird.
That means more than just to know it when you see it. It means that it should come to you for a drink when it is thirsty, and for something to eat
when it is hungry, and not be afraid to put its nest in your bushes and vines.

The redbird is so red that it looks like a bright little flame of fire when it flies across the yard in the sunlight. It seldom flits but flies straight ahead as if it had made up its mind
where it was going before it started.

You will know it is the redbird when you see it, but there are some things to look at anyway. See the large, red bill? Do you know any other bird with a red bill? This is so strong that the redbird can crack seeds, and break up grains of corn. Some one called this bird the red corn-cracker. The name that describes it best of all is cardinal grosbeak. Cardinal is the kind of red, and gros means great, so we have a name that describes the color of the bird and also its bill. This bill has a black frame around it. The bird's chin is black and its eyes are like little black heads. It has something else that few birds have, and that is a crest on its head. It raises its crest when it is excited and sometimes you will not be able to see that it has one.

Some day you will see a bird that has a red bill, red crest, and red feathers in its tail and wings but its body is not red. The body looks as if it has a thin greenish gray veil wrapped around it, for the red does show through. This bird is either the mother redbird or the young one.
And these you can tell apart by looking at the bill. The young bird has a dark bill, otherwise it looks like its mother.

Why are they not red? Mother bird would show too plainly when sitting on her nest, and baby bird must first grow strong and wise enough to get out of the way of danger.

The redbird does not spend the winter in the south, so if one chooses your yard or the yards in your neighborhood for its home, you can have the pleasure of seeing it all year round, unless it takes its young ones off to better feeding grounds for a while during late summer and autumn. Even then it will be quite sure to come back in winter.

How does the redbird decide where it wants to live? You can help it decide. Birds must have water to drink and to bathe in, and food to eat, and a place to sleep. Some of you will say "Why, girls and boys want those things too!" and that is so.

A bird pan, with water kept in it and set up where the bird can go to it, and while it is there can look around on all sides for danger, is one thing it likes. Maybe you live in the country and have a spring or creek nearby. It will like that better. It will eat snow in winter.

And where it gets its food is another thing it must look out for. Redbirds do eat some insects, especially grasshoppers, and in winter it will eat a little sweet or fat meat if you put some on the feeding place. But seeds and nut kernels are what it likes best. When it lives in the country it finds the corn that has been left in the field. It pulls off a grain and cracks it in pieces before it eats it.
It eats berries that it finds in the woods or along the fields. Best of all it likes sun-flower seeds, peanut kernels, and also muskmelon seeds. Save your muskmelon seeds during the summer, wash and dry them and put them away for the winter feeding shelf.

One redbird was seen to eat eight-teen sunflower seeds for one meal, and at another time his mate ate sixteen melon seeds. They pick up the seed and with a quick twist of the tongue, turn it in the mouth so that the thick
part is inward, and the seed on edge.
Then by pressing with its bill it cracks the seed shells and throws them out, eating the kernel.

Redbirds roost at night in thick bushes, vines or evergreen trees, if they are near. In winter small flocks will feed in the fields on weed seeds or dry berries during the day and return night after night, a long distance, to the same evergreen tree to roost. They like to sleep in the same place each night, even in your yard.
